After devoting nearly forty years of his life to Shady Side Academy, Mr. Charles P. Shriver is retiring from teaching this year to enter a new career in business. Mr. Shriver, a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College in 1915, completed his service in World War I and a period of teaching at Homestead High before joining the faculty at Shady Side Academy in 1918. The Academy was then located at the corner of Morewood and Ellsworth Avenues. Mr. Shriver played an important role in the transitional period when the Academy was moved to its present site. In the early years he assumed the responsibilities of Director of Admissions and for twenty years he has sustained an important campus institution, the Tuck Shop. For many years Mr. Shriver took boys on spring vacation junkets to Bermuda and during the summer he shepherded groups to South America and to the West Coast. Eighteen summers were spent directing a boys' camp in New Hampshire. Mr. Shriver will now enter a full time association in business with one of his former pupils, Mr. Stanley Hahn, '35, in the Hahn Furniture Company.

The class of 1957 wishes to dedicate this Academian to Mr. Charles P. Shriver and to Mr. J. Harold Sample who, with their aggregate of 70 years of teaching at this school, are, in a large measure, responsible for the academic standards and fine reputation of the Shady Side Academy of 1957.

Admired and respected by two generations of students, Mr. J. Harold Sample announced his retirement this year. After serving as an Ensign in World War I, Mr. Sample taught at Phillips Andover and at Milton before coming to Shady Side Academy in 1926. Having completed his undergraduate work at Yale in 1913, Mr. Sample then acquired his MA in history at Harvard. Here through the years Mr. Sample has been associated with most of the activities of the school. He has directed the Shady Side Academy Summer School since 1945. His avid interest in books has led to the creation of an impressive home library of select volumes in the history, biography, and mathematics areas. Mr. Sample's quiet humor and immaculate presence have lent this campus added dignity and his effective teaching will long be remembered here. He will not retire from teaching entirely as he plans to continue his association with the Carnegie Tech Evening School where he has been a member of the faculty for twenty-one years.

EDITORIAL

The 1957 ACADEMIAN is a yearbook in the fullest sense of the word. This is the first time to our knowledge that a Shady Side yearbook has covered events from opening day in September to graduation in the following June. The class of 1957 is given a full portrait of its last year at Shady Side Academy. In particular this yearbook plays on the theme of the trimester, being divided into three sections projecting the atmosphere of the school in fall, winter, and spring.

During the first weeks in the fall, spirit is high at Shady Side. Grades soar in a brief period of review, and teams strive for harmony that will mean success on the field. Fall is the season of enthusiasm in class . . . tea parties . . . pep rallies . . . homecoming . . . victorious soccer . . . football high hopes, low scores. As the winds grow colder, and the athletic season ends, outside pressures wither away. Thanksgiving recess is impatiently awaited, and then abruptly becomes a memory. The lingering weeks until Christmas vacation have one obstacle—exams. The grind begins with Hamilton's financial policies . . . lab preparations . . . Johnson's conversations, and finally at eleven o'clock on Wednesday, the last side-angle-side.

Winter is the grey time on campus when everything turns into a repetitive pattern of monotony . . . College Board D.S.'s . . . Thursday quiz papers . . . icy, wind-swept walks down the gym hill . . . hot showers . . . basketball and wrestling victories . . . Rima and the Red-dleman . . . spam . . . Wednesday movies . . . soggy quads . . . band and play rehearsals . . . bleak bus rides home . . . the interruption of a Phi Beta free day . . . the Fifth form or house dance. Late in the season the routine is broken by a successful concert with Ellis . . . the Gargoyle play . . . Richard Dudgeon & Co. . . . Basketball co-championship . . . and finally on a wet, chilly Saturday morning late in March, exams again.

From the Florida sunshine the "denizens of S.S.A." return for the happiest season at school. Athletic contests perforate the school week with four varsity teams in action . . . Prom preparations . . . Ellis-Winchester softball games . . . those happy-sad-college-notice days . . . picnics . . . "pit" parties. In the last few weeks our achievements are rewarded on Prize Day. Finally, years of study at Shady Side Academy (fourteen in one case) are recognized and culminated in graduation.

And so the cycle is complete. The year in pictures, in art work, and in bits of copy is as complete a statement as this staff could coach from unwilling cameras, sick typewriters, and errant senior members. We hope you will find this volume a pleasant reminder of the class of 1957.

This picture of the faculty of Shady Side Academy represents a departure from the conventional picture-copy format. The editors felt that there were values in posing the faculty informally as a whole group and then dividing the group into teaching areas or departments as much as possible. We realize that there will be new faces in the faculty group next year as some of the senior members retire and some of the younger members go on to advanced situations in education. This, it would seem, adds value to Staff Photographer Knepper's unusual picture.

FALL

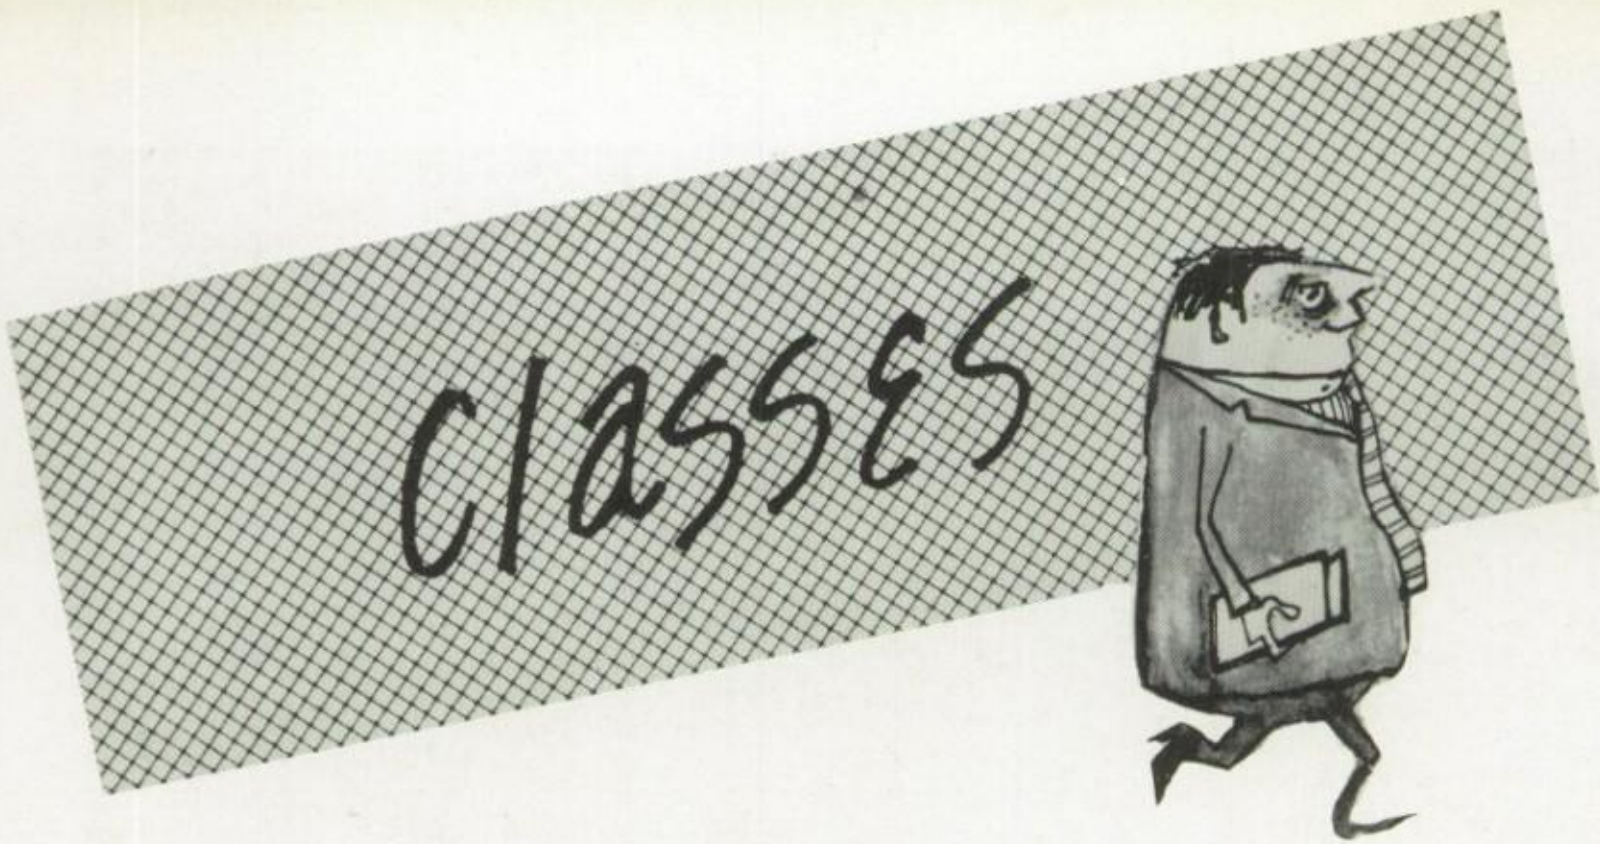

From the salt-washed and sunnied beaches of some Saco or Svenborg return the denizens of these rounded hills. The new-faced day is shouldered into a crowded succession of meetings and scheduled changes, books to buy, uniforms to try on. From summer's softness the return to the discipline of study is a welcome change. The cleated sod is laced with the pattern of victory or defeat and churned incessantly during the golden afternoons of practice. The soccer ball whips in a crisscross pattern of championship. Fall invites us with clean, bright air to make something worthwhile of the study year.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is the manifestation of the attempts of the student body to have a functioning student government. Last year, an important plateau towards the Council's final goal was reached with the passing of the Student Council Charter. This year in order to fulfill certain provisions of the Charter, the Council has expanded in many fields.

Again this year the Council managed and successfully carried out the United Fund Charities Drive. Other responsibilities assumed by Council members have been the taking of attendance for Chapel services and the proctoring of study hall when masters have not been available.

President Gooding presides at a Student Council meeting.

The Library Committee was formed for the purpose of doing fundamental tasks which would have otherwise taken many additional hours from Mrs. Botset's time. As in previous years, the committee experienced the usual lack of diplomacy; nevertheless, the members did do some valuable services, such as replacing returned books in the proper places. For work rendered the previous year, the committee member receives a book of his choice.

AUDIO-VISUAL

Lott gets set to make a lot of noise.

The Audio-Visual Aids group, under the supervision of Mr. Thorpe, is a hard-working crew that is responsible for many campus services. Its members, skilled in the techniques of both sound and communication, could be called the unseen force which enhances many of the school's activities.

They are the ones who regulate the microphones of Memorial Hall so the speaker can be heard in every corner of the Chapel. Through the efficiency of this organization one is able to watch the Activities Period movies, or observe a football game with the aid of a play-by-play description.

SCIENCE CLUB

And away we go!

Depriving themselves of valuable weekend sleep, the members of the Science Club regularly attend the Saturday morning meetings of that organization in the chemistry lab. At these meetings, under the direction of Mr. John S. Thorpe, the members discuss the various problems associated with modern-day science. The members are permitted to use the school's facilities when experimenting with a new project. During the year the members visited the new Westinghouse Research laboratories. One of the members, Dick Mansmann, distinguished himself by winning a prize in the Buhl Planetarium Science Show.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

This fall the varsity gridders of S.S.A. experienced a rather disappointing season. Coached by Mr. F. Walter Jones, Mr. Robert D. Abercrombie, and Mr. William Eaton, the team got off to a poor start, losing to a mediocre Ligonier team. This defeat was followed by losses to strong Oakmont and Kiski teams by scores of 27-0 and 20-13 respectively. The team showed its greatest promise the following Saturday when it traveled to Cleveland to encounter a highly touted University School team. Although the Jonesmen lost by the score of 14-6, the team played extremely well. The outlook was considerably brightened by the University School game, only to be darkened by a 34-0 trouncing by Western Reserve Academy under gray skies at the annual Homecoming Day. Following a one-week intermission in the schedule, the football team tied Cranbrook 13-13 in a hard-fought game, and lost badly to Nichols at Buffalo by a score of 34-0. The team's poor tackling and downfield blocking hindered Shady Side's offense, and subsequently the team suffered in the touchdown department. The team, although losing several seniors, is looking forward to a more successful season next year with the return of several lettermen, equally distributed among the backs and linemen. With Campbell and Sayers elected co-captains replacing Squires and Roadman, we can only hope that the squad of next year will have a victorious season.

VARSITY SOCCER

The 1956 Shady Side varsity soccer team came through with a brilliant 11-1 record. Although the team dropped the Homecoming game 1-0 to Western Reserve Academy, it managed to obtain a three way tie for first place in league competition.

No less notable than the booters' won-lost record was their scoring record. In twelve contests they scored 37 goals, six more than the previous record of 31, while at the same time their opponents were held to seven goals.

Highlighting the season were the outstanding performances turned in by captain Bill Addenbrook, Dave Hughes, and co-captain elect Frank Famariss. Bill Addenbrook's contribution to the team cannot be measured by the number of goals scored. Without his driving spirit and conscientious playing, the team would have been less effective. Dave Hughes, an English foreign exchange student, provided a spectacular thrill by scoring the two winning goals in a decisive contest against Cranbrook School. Frank Famariss led the team in scoring a total of thirteen goals, only two short of a school scoring record. However, the emphasis was not only on individual excellence but also on team cooperation as was exhibited by halfbacks Charles Thorp, John Davison, and John Birmingham.

With a nucleus of six returning lettermen, led by co-captains Charles Thorp and Frank Famariss, Coach Parker Berg is looking forward to a most successful season for 1957.

WINTER

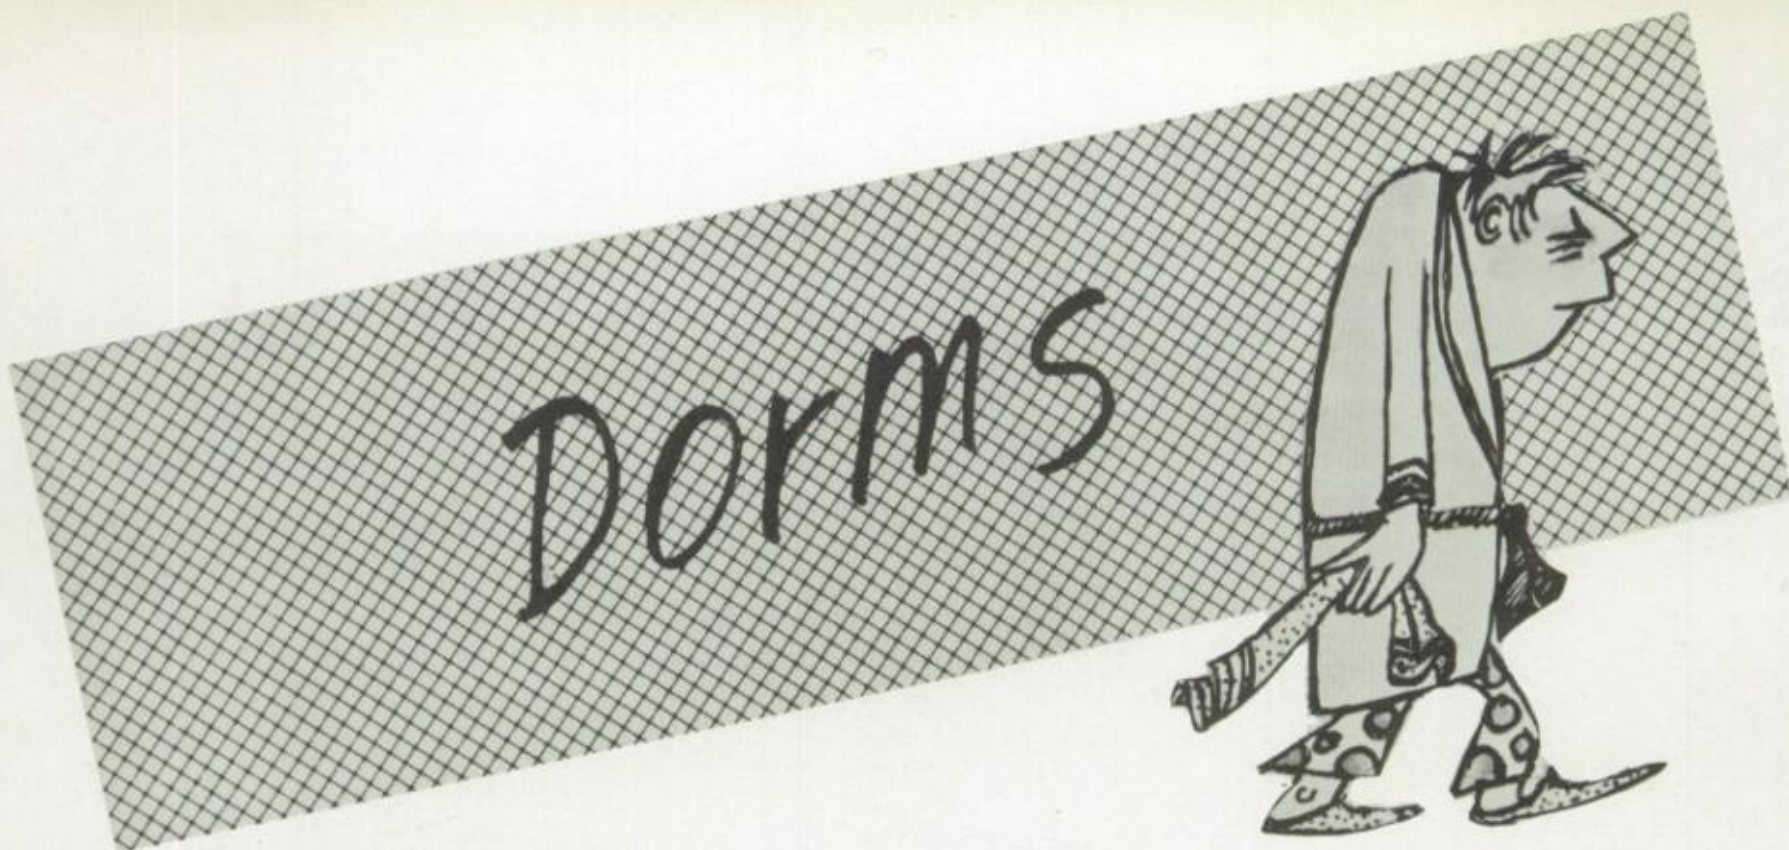

On the flat grid of McKelvy field the sharp fall winds suddenly swirl in a rush of white. Gold and russet melt into washes of grey; somber winter drapes a leaden sky behind red brick wall and sharp chapel tower. Under the murals of McCune Library, in the resounding halls of Rowe, and in the tiled void of the gym, the routines of campus life grind away the winter months. Buses bundled with under-formers move to centers of industry and culture on Wednesday afternoons while seniors bend to college testing. A thrilling last-minute basket brings the surging crowd to raise the heroes on jostled shoulder. The short but endless days repeat themselves while markers move barely noticed in the fatness of the text.

Bemused Tapper and Thorpe present a scheme to Mr. Felch.

Emphasizing individual pursuits rather than group activities, the Art Club, advised by Mr. Felch, offered many opportunities for students to further their interest in art. This club gives students beyond the Second Form a chance to learn techniques in painting, ceramics, and in other media. Rowe Hall corridor assumed the appearance of a gallery many weeks during the past year when paintings, prints, and books were displayed. The group borrowed material from The Pittsburgh Plan for Art and from the Frick Collection. A year end show of student work marked the final effort of the Art Club.

SHOP CLUB

Division of labor in closed shop.

Although a relatively new organization, the Shop Club has quickly become an important group on the Shady Side campus. Meeting on alternate Wednesday afternoons, skilled craftsmen under the guidance of Mr. Arlin Cook render services to the school. This year the club made scrolls to be placed in front of the dormitories indicating the name of the dormitory. Also the group made a magazine rack on which newspapers from other schools were placed.

In addition to these service tasks, many students worked on individual projects for their own benefit.

The St. Andrew's Society, a restricted discussion group, holds its meetings on Wednesday evenings in McCune Library. The students of the three upper classes who are deemed most likely to make a worthy contribution to informal talks are voted into the society. In addition to the regular meetings under the leadership of Messrs. Jones and Follansbee, the group listens to several outside speakers. The society, this year, also sponsored a drive to collect old eyeglasses for a hospital in Central America run by a group of prominent Pittsburgh physicians. As in previous years, a drive to collect old clothes for charitable institutions was sponsored by the St. Andrew's Society.

FORUM

"... when, all of the sudden, this blonde sits down beside me!"
Hicks recalls his sojourn in Paris.

The Forum, one of the few discussion groups on campus open to members of any form, studies topics of local, national, and international importance. The only requirement for membership is that the member attend the meetings regularly and contribute to the discussions. At the first meeting of the year, each member writes on a slip of paper those topics which he would like discussed at a future meeting. Acting on some of this year's suggestions, Mr. Cook, the faculty adviser, arranged for certain important persons to be guest speakers. Some of the topics chosen for discussion were the "Suez Crisis" on which three S.S.A. students gave talks, and "School Spirit" on which a panel, consisting of seniors who are outstanding in certain phases of school life, gave its opinion on school spirit.

GARGOYLE

Jim Lott assumes a familiar pose.

After mulling over most of the plays known to the theater, the Gargoyle Society enthusiastically plowed into the problems of acting, designing, lighting, and ticket selling for the production of Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple". A gallows, period guns, pewter-ware, and girls from Winchester-Thurston all had to be constructed, obtained, or transported. Mr. Douglas Lewis, who ran the gamut from whispers to impassioned pleas, managed to wring a fine performance from the cast on both nights the play was presented.

A muscled stage crew under the aegis of Mr. Willard Mead created some fine effects and shuffled a good deal of scenery with remarkable efficiency. Most of Tapper's "what, me worry"s were painted over, and the play was called a great success by two capacity audiences.

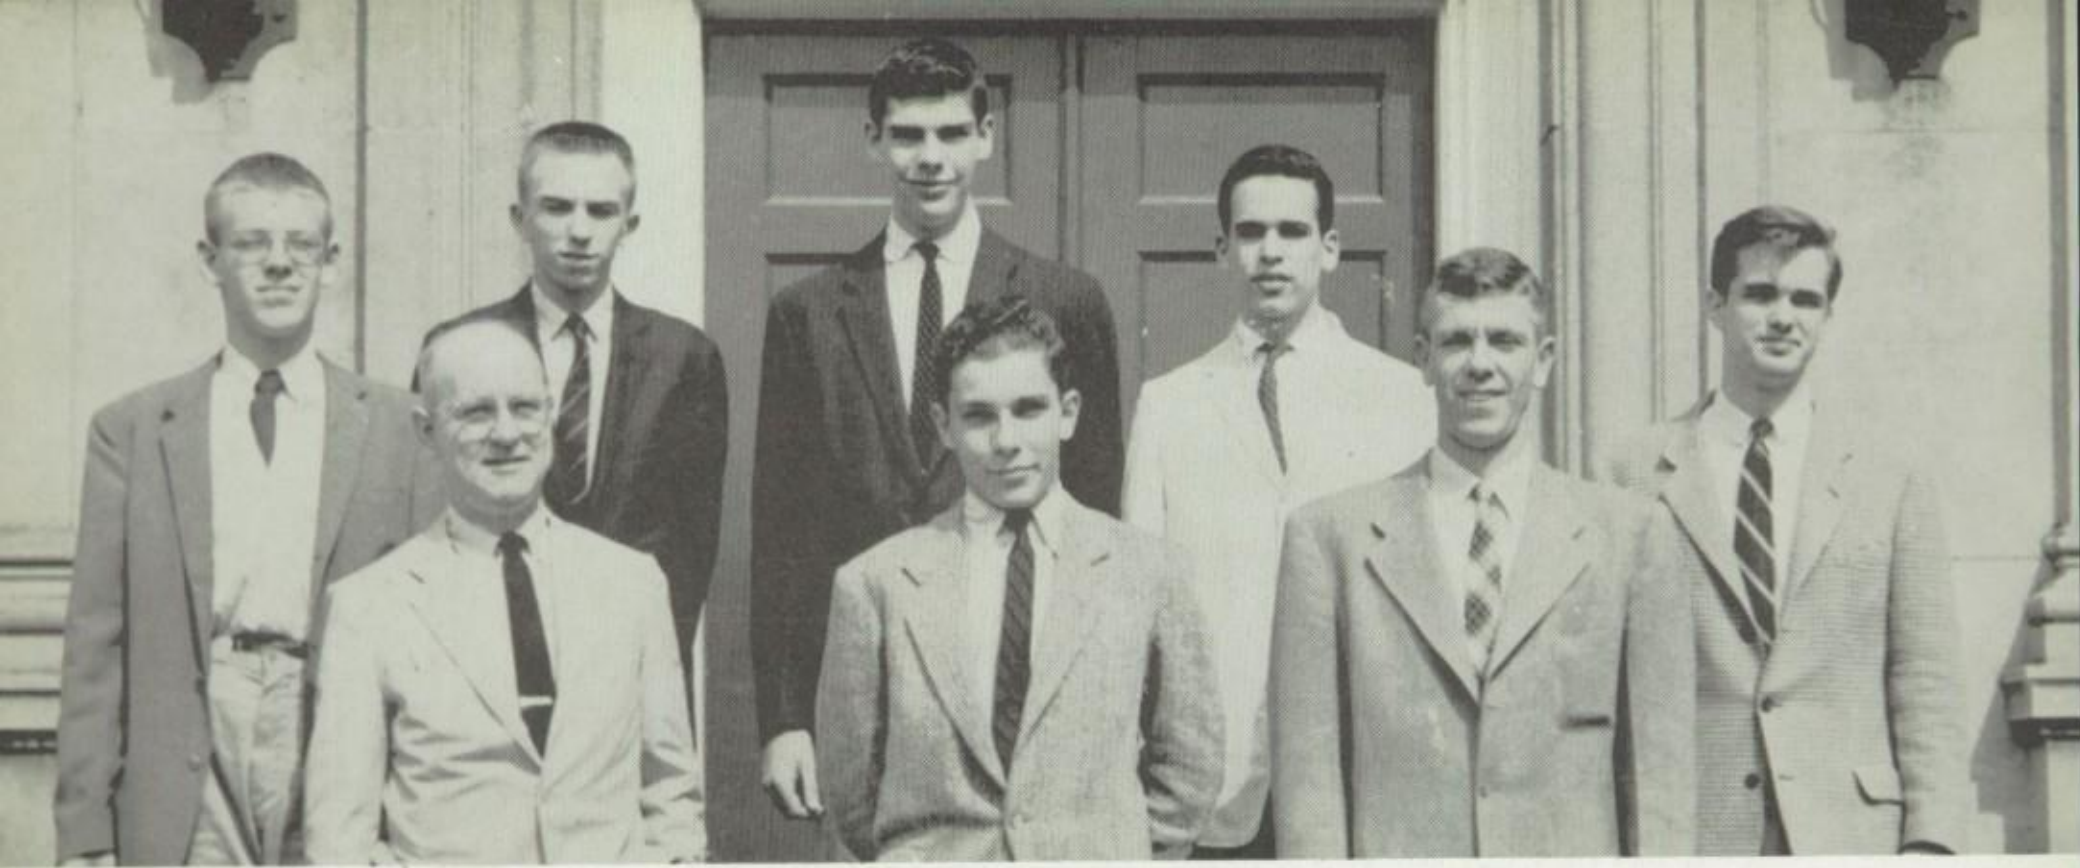

Monsour goes out on a limb for another man's wife in "The Devil's Disciple".

DEBATE TEAM

The Debate Team, under the guiding counsel of Messrs. Gregory and Cook, started the debate season with high hopes of a successful year. The topic of discussion for the coming year was, Resolved: That the Federal Government should sustain the prices of the major agricultural products at not less than 90% of parity. This issue at first attracted many young debaters; but as the year went by, the interest of most of these prospects slackened. The first public appearance made by the team was at a Forum meeting in March. Later in March, the team entered the Taylor-Alderdice Debating Tournament, placing second out of the 16 teams competing.

CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club, this year, was Shady Side's winter surprise. The club consisted mainly of an amazingly strong group of young chessmen who turned out a creditable record of five wins and two losses. The team's best match, although a loss, was the traditional tilt against the University Club. Here S.S.A.'s number one player, Roy Astley, upset the heavily favored Mr. Rodewald. Another highlight of the match was when Foster Goldman downed University's number two boardman. Other participants for S.S.A. were seniors Paul Eiler, Ed Ferguson, and John Tryon; junior, Breck Holt; and sophomore, Jim Morris.

Astley, Sultan of the 64, baffles all, including himself, by rooks gambit.

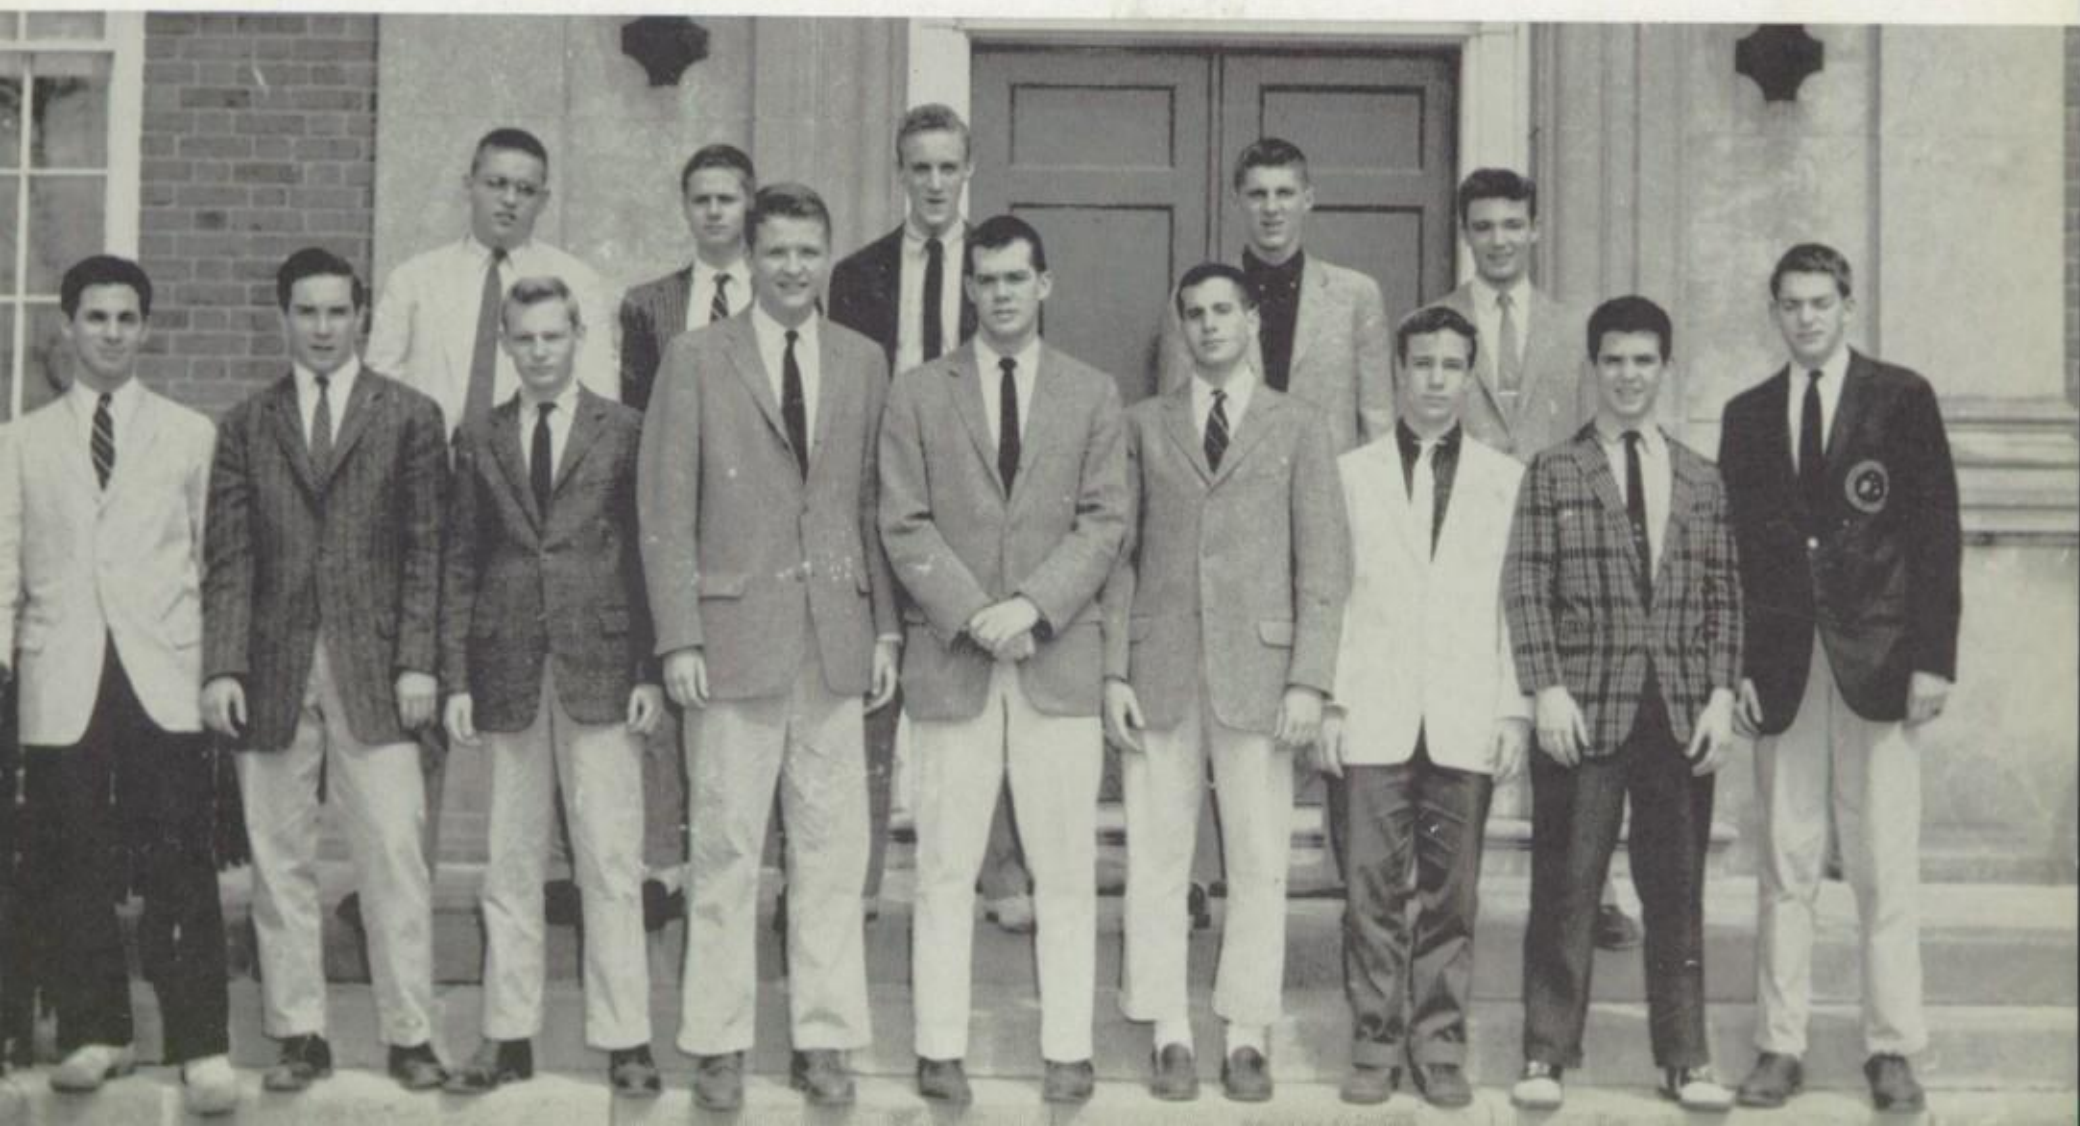

Some like it red hot; others want it way out and real cool; but they all like jazz. On alternate Wednesday afternoons during the winter term dixieland and progressive jazz fans met in the library to consider their favorite subject. Under the direction of Mr. William Stewart the Jazz Club has focused enthusiastic interest in this field and given it form through brief informal talks and periods of analytical listening. Officers of the Jazz Club for the year '56-'57 were: William Phillips (President), David Rothman (Vice-President), Donald Scharfe (Secretary-Treasurer).

BAND

The Concert Band, directed by Frank Cacese, organized in early fall to prepare for several concerts. All aspiring musicians were urged to contact Mr. Cacese. Many members took individual lessons and strange sounds issued from the practice rooms during the fall months. By mid-winter the band was ready for the Ellis-Shady Side Concert. The rousing marches "El Capitan" by John Phillip Sousa and "Stars and Stripes Forever" were performed. Other numbers were "Student Prince" and a part of Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite". The final appearance of the Concert Band was at the Annual Spring Concert on May 25 in combination with the Glee Club.

GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Charles Schmitt, was again one of the best attended and vitally interested organizations on campus. Two concerts were prepared during the year. The programs included the extremes in choral music ranging from calypso to rousing patriotic themes. Student director John Knepper contributed much to the Glee Club's '57 success, and, after the combined concert with Ellis and the Spring Concert, the final appearance at graduation was applauded by an appreciative student body.

ACADEMIAN

To the ACADEMIAN staff falls the intriguing and difficult task of searching out the essence of a school year and recording that essence in picture and word. The finished product, so our adviser tells us, will be sampled briefly when it is first completed; then the book will be up-ended on the shelf and next examined after a lapse of years. Although the humor may grow stale, references become obscure, and pictures no longer represent the names we know, the ACADEMIAN editors willingly risk their reputation on the lasting value of their work.

The editor's immediate rewards of writing, editing, photographing and laying out the school's book of the year will be supplemented by the future rewards of rediscovering the year 1956-57 through this ACADEMIAN.

"Bigger and Better" was the slogan of this year's NEWS staff. Tired of catering to a cramped format, the editors and their adviser, Mr. Firth, decided to restyle the NEWS to a six page publication. The first and last pages remained the same with the usual coverage of campus events. Added inside pages allowed expansion of commentary on sports, an occasional feature article on politics, "The Man in Review," and personal interviews. Junior School reporters filled page five with bits of copy covering everything from Braddock Ave. pigskin skirmishes to the staging of "Pinafore." The Christmas issue, "The NEWS YULER," was one of the most unusual publications of this type ever attempted on the secondary school level.

Jolly editors Eiler, Rust, Rosenthal, and Weiner find Silverblatt's one-finger-copy very amusing.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

VARSITY BASKETBALL

This year's varsity basketball team had a better than average season, winning twelve while losing eight. The team, coached by Mr. F. Walter Jones, had a good league record of three to one. This gained a tie for first place with two other schools.

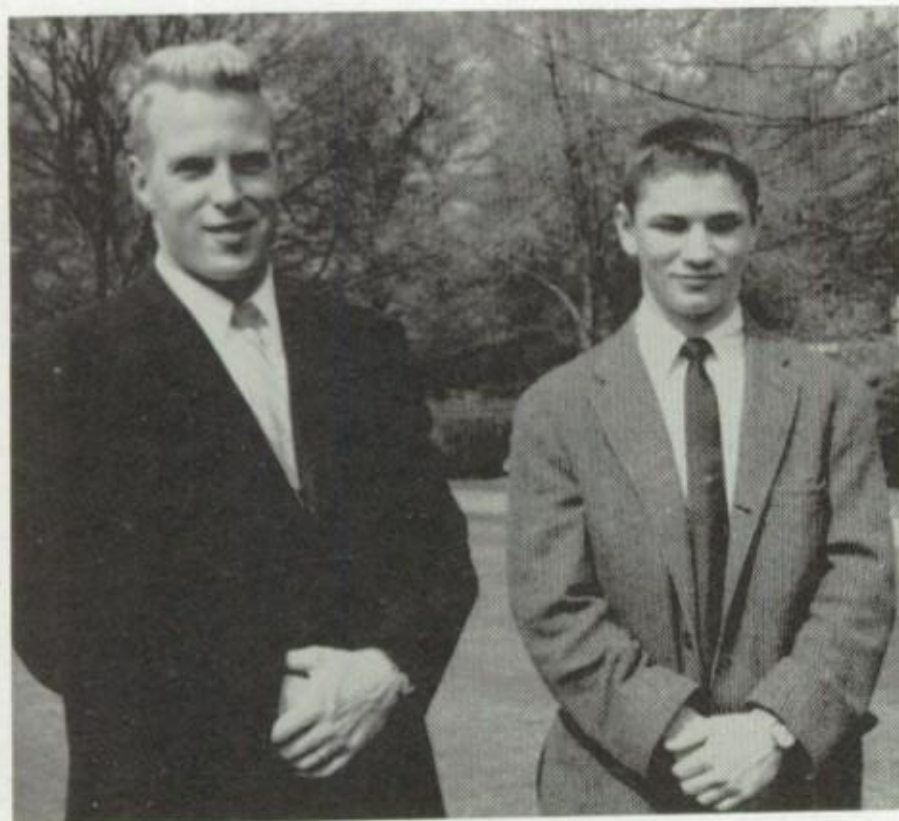

The team got off to a good start by winning their first two games. A much stronger Edgewood team beat us. Even though we were far outplayed we held them to a fifteen point winning margin. This weakened our spirits and we were defeated by our next two opponents.

After we won three of our next five local contests, we faced our first league opponent, Cranbrook. An inspired team beat Cranbrook 45 to 35. We lost the intervening local game, but snapped back to win our next league game with Nichols.

We lost a heart-breaker to W.P.S.D. by one basket. This again weakened our spirits and we lost our third league game, with W.R.A., 37 to 44. After losing our third straight, we recovered and won our last three games. Our last league encounter, with University School, we won by a last-minute basket.

The basketball season, although not overly impressive, had the beneficial effect of training younger boys for future teams. We had good height (Eckhardt 6' 4", and the Emerys, Arden 6' 3", Bill 6' 2 1/2") and good team play. This year's most valuable player, Ned Eckhardt, will take over John Birmingham's place as captain next year.

VARSITY WRESTLING

The varsity wrestling squad, under the able coaching of Mr. Peter Bolanis assisted by Mr. William Eaton, had a good season; winning ten, losing nine, and tying one.

The matmen got off to a halting start, being defeated by Shaler 26 to 6. They snapped right back with a 23 to 9 win over North Allegheny. In their third match, which was with West View, the grapplers won a thriller by a score of 20 to 19. The team won its last match with an area school, Munhall, before going to their first league contest.

The league wrestling competition does not include Nichols School; therefore, only three matches are scheduled. Cranbrook, our first league opponent, scored a decisive victory over S.S.A. 26 to 8. Before our next league engagement two local opponents, Jeanette and Carnegie, were defeated. We now faced a tough Western Reserve team; but with excellent performances by all of the team concerned, we beat them 21 to 19.

Mt. Lebanon went down 21 to 15, and our old rival Kiski was defeated in a difficult match 20 to 16. Our last league contest with University School we lost 16 to 24, and a tie with West View completed the season. It was an effective season in terms of important wins as well as in allowing younger boys valuable experience.

This year for the first time in many years we sent a team to participate in the Lehigh University Wrestling Tournament. In very fine competition we managed to take away two second places. Captain John Byrnes and sophomore Mike Lieberman gained the two victories for Shady Side.

SPRING

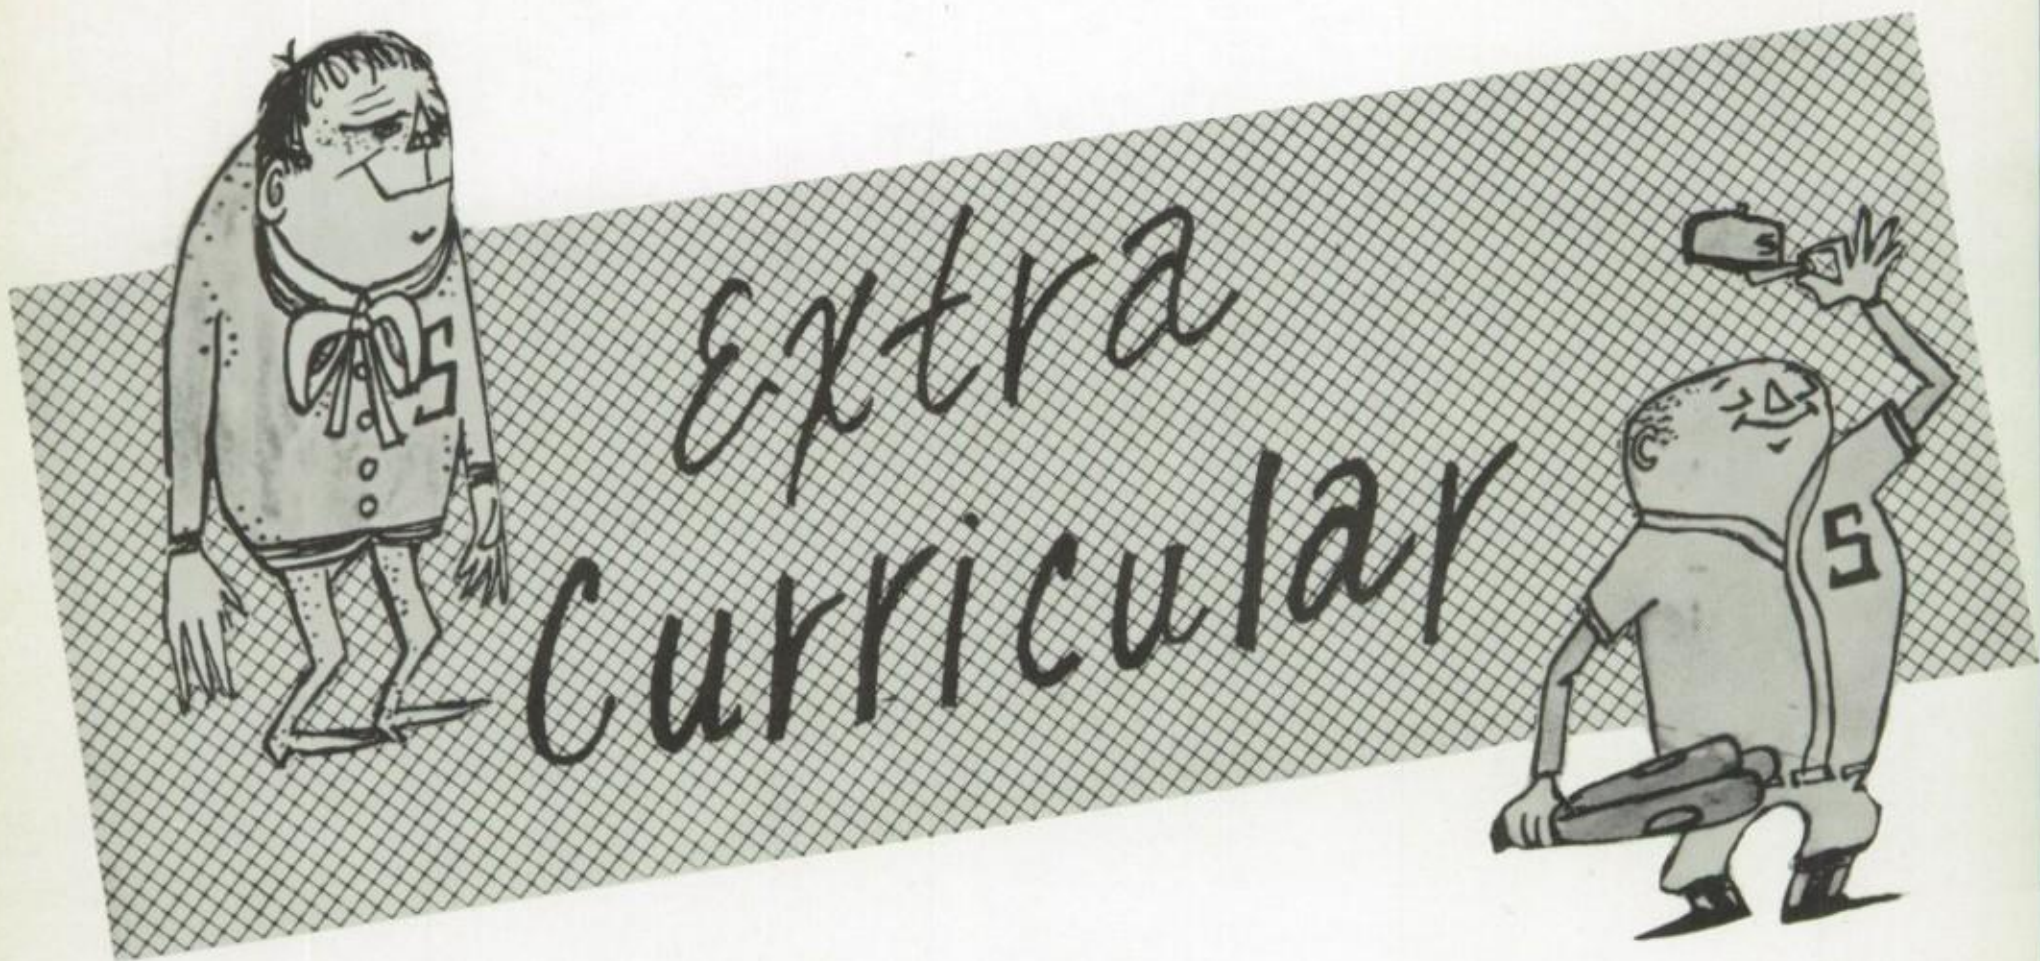

At last persistent winter is dismissed with budded branch and all along this verdant stretch the old newness of spring floods in. White net of swirling gowns in settings of romantic excitement herald the coming day of speeches and farewells. The joy of leaving is mingled for a moment with one last desire for the protecting hall wherein the full-cheeked boy played out his days of youthful learning and now strides before us in sureness gained, ready for the next big challenge.

EGERIAN

The EGERIAN provides an effective outlet for those students with a flair for creative writing. This annual publication is made up and edited by a staff of upper formers assisted by Mr. Willard Mead. All students can submit and have articles published in the EGERIAN. Articles may be short stories, poems, or essays, and art work is also considered. The EGERIAN goes to press at the end of the year after the editors have selected the best creative works of the previous terms. Last year for the first time in its history the EGERIAN sold ads to defray the costs of publication, but this practice will not be continued. The white covered '57 EGERIAN presents a better balance of art work and typography; content is of higher quality.

"Now when photographing a nude . . ."

The Photography Club, besides stimulating interest in the photographic field, performs many important services for the school. Organized in 1948, the club has expanded its activities each year under the direction of Mr. Thorpe. The members meet Wednesday during activities period. Here advanced members and beginners alike discuss and solve the various problems associated with picture taking and developing. Mr. Oscar Emrich's lecture on camera techniques was a high point of the winter term. In former years, this organization has aided the administration by taking pictures of students for identification purposes.

SARGON SOCIETY

One of the most significant honors that can come to upper formers is being "tapped" for membership to Sargon. Students who have exhibited leadership in various phases of school life including extra-curricular activities and athletics. The familiar red-ribbon ties and amusing pledge cards were seen three times during the year, and eleven new members were tapped including two fifth formers.

In recent years Sargon has accepted boys who have made some outstanding contribution in one area, thus overlooking the prerequisite in athletics. This has given the group the character of a representative honor society and added to its prestige. Messrs. Berg, Follansbee, and Jones are members of the faculty associated with Sargon.

V A R S I T B A S E B A L L

The Varsity Baseball team, sparked by the brilliant pitching of two sophomores, finished the season with a creditable win record. The lack of power hitting, which has plagued the team in previous years, resulted in the loss of the opener to Peabody. However, in the second game, strong pitching led the Indians to a victory over Kiski by a score of 2 to 0. Ken Salmon, aided by some excellent fielding on the part of his teammates, pitched Shady Side to a 2 to 0 victory over Nichols in the first league encounter. The Indians finished the season with a win over Cranbrook by a 11 to 3 score. In this game Captain John Davison, with the bases loaded, banged a hit over the right-fielder's head for a ground-rule double. This gave Shady Side's team a 8 and 6 season. Although next year's team will have only a nucleus of three returning lettermen, much potential was shown by younger players who saw limited action during the '57 season.

The Varsity Track team was the year's big sports surprise. With one record holder returning (Bill Emery), the team made modest showings in its initial efforts. After three defeats the harriers toppled Hampton High School by a score of 69½ to 39½. This win seemed to provide the needed inspiration for the next five meets brought victory to Shady Side. In the Interstate Preparatory Meet, in which all five league teams participated, Shady Side, lacking depth, took fifth with 27½ points. This score does not reveal many fine individual performances and in many events the tracksters gave their best showing of the year. Highlights were Bing Beeson's record polevault of 11 feet 4 inches, and Dave Hughes' exciting performance in the mile.

It pays to be at the center of things

The many services that a bank performs require the talents of a surprising variety of personnel, aside from those with the obviously logical background of financial training. Your education may very well be the perfect background for one of the more than 20 well-paying positions in a bank.

One of every five and a half banking employees is an officer. A greater portion of graduates who pursue a banking career attain the $7500 to $10,000 per year bracket than those in any other business. These statistics apply in many cases to both men and women in banking, since 10% of banking officials are women.

Banking is out ahead of most other fields in the important matter of fringe benefits. The average bank employee receives an additional $24 in fringe benefits for every $100 in salary.

A career in banking offers the opportunity to further your education if you so desire. Many banks offer free courses in money, credit, banking, economics, and other allied subjects.

Banking is a profession of prestige and respect. Few fields offer the college graduate such opportunities. Look ahead, weighing your talents and ambitions, and then answer this question:

What about a banking career...for you?

To education's three "R's" now add driver training

Public school behind-the-wheel courses teach driving dexterity

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Next time you growl "Teen-ager!" at a reckless driver—think twice, won't you?

Think of the magnificent job so many of our schools are doing these days in student driver education. Studies have shown reductions of 50% or more in accidents and traffic violations involving the trained young driver compared to the non-trained driver in the same age group.

Here, provably, is a project finding such ready acceptance the nation over that we may well see—in our own lifetime—an entire generation of teen-age drivers as schooled in safe driving as they are in education's traditional three "R's."

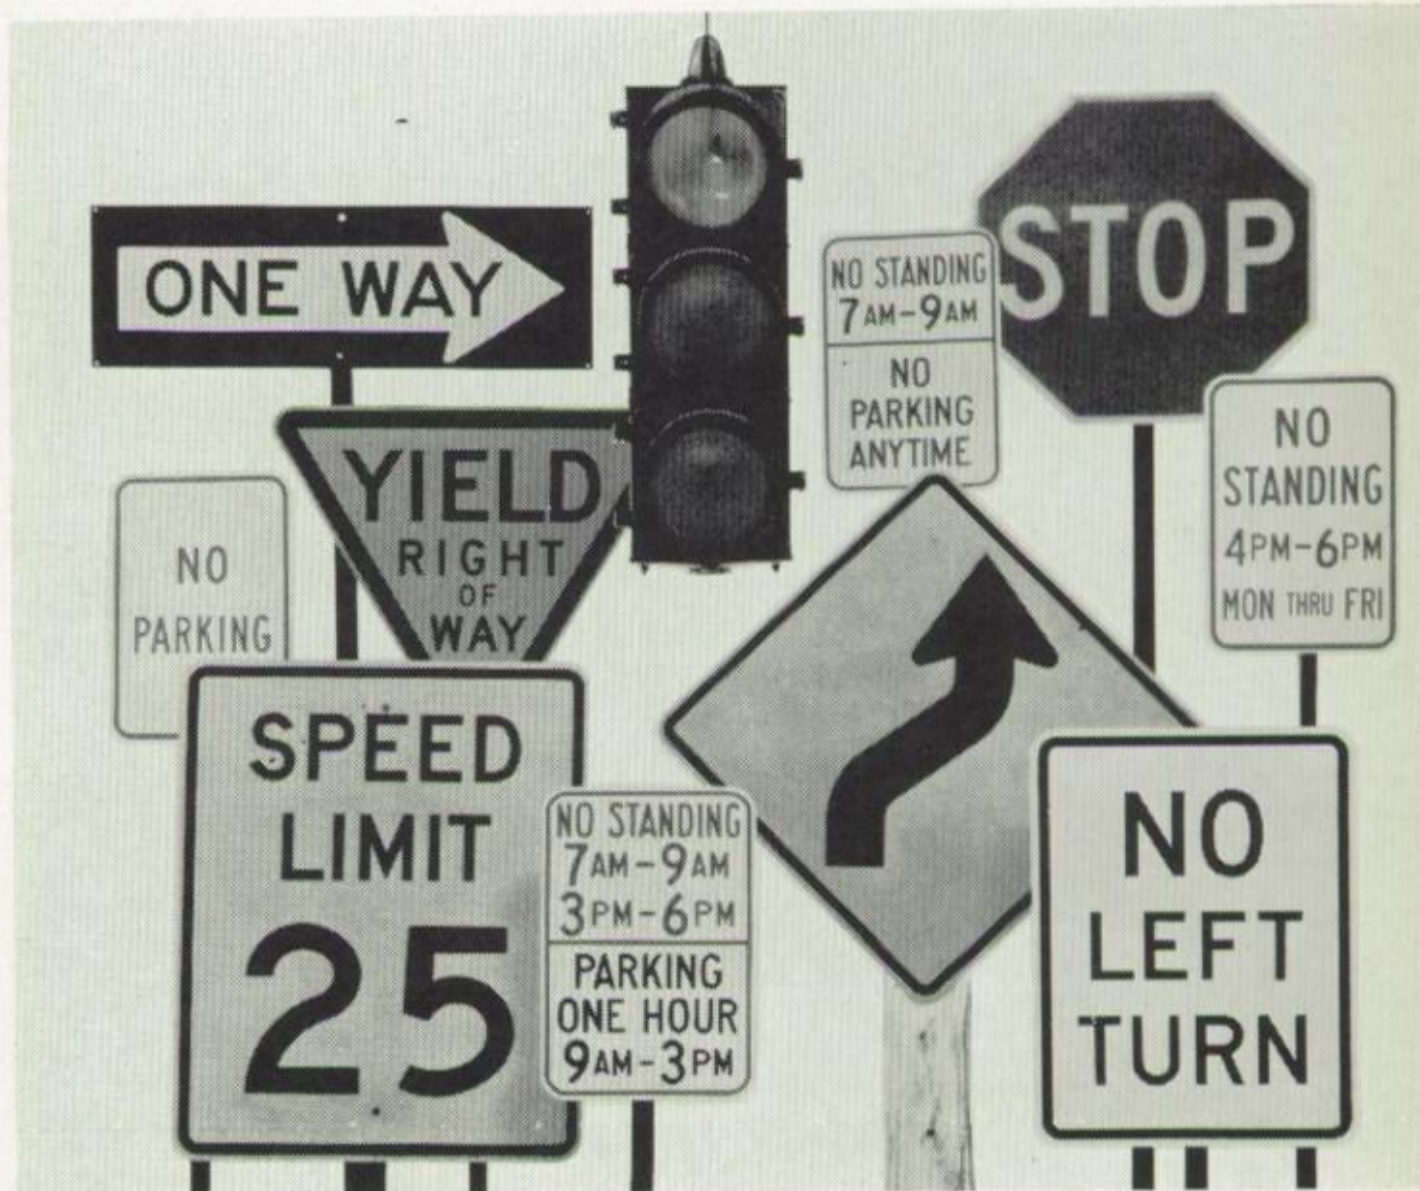

Driver Education Fast Spreading
A pioneer in promoting skilled driver instruction programs in our schools as far back as the '30's is Dr. Herbert J. Stack, Director, Center for Safety Education, New York University.

"Don't blame the automobile for our accident rate," says Dr. Stack. "Faulty driving behavior, violations of regulations, bad driving practices—excessive speed and improper passing—these are the basic causes of 70-80% of our accidents."

In the past 10 years some six million teen-agers have received official courses in instruction as part of their high school education, particularly, instruction in good driver attitudes. In a sense of social responsibility. In consideration for others when behind the wheel.

Last year, more than a million youngsters, and some 78,000 in public adult schools, participated. At least 15 million more will be so trained in the next 10 years. Over 80% of schools participating provide both classroom instruction and practice driving. New car dealers provided 9,253 cars (valued at almost $21,000,000) for high school training programs in 1955-56.

Also, seven states now provide financial aid to schools to help defray education costs. Insurance rates are reduced for students passing the courses. Grants from manufacturers and businesses of various kinds have further helped to boost the program.

A crusade? Driver education is fast becoming one! Where it counts most, too—with the brand-new drivers of today's superlatively engineered automobiles, the manufacturers of which are ceaselessly striving to make driving ever easier, safer.

National's Role

We at National Steel take a profound interest in the vital contributions of school driver instruction projects, because of our special pride in the great contributions of the automobile to the health and prosperity of our people and our nation. For National Steel, through three of its major divisions—Great Lakes Steel at Detroit, Michigan, Weirton Steel at Weirton, West Virginia, and The Hanna Furnace Corporation at Buffalo, New York—is an important supplier of the steel and iron used by automobile manufacturers.

Our constant goal—through research and cooperation with the automobile industry—is to make better and better steel for still greater safety, strength and economy in the cars and trucks of today and tomorrow.
